

Here is a band of some of Southern Ontario's finest musicians who have come together to create a fresh and distinct style of acoustic rock that borders on progressive folk music. Their music is featured on the gold award winning film Amplifier's soundtrack.

Formerly known as Drywater Falls the band had a desire to have a more memorable name. So they polled their fan base with a free download of their upcoming CD release and a questionnaire. The results were tallied and the new name "Here" was the winning choice. The responses also revealed what song was the favoured first "HIT" and also what other bands Here sounded like. The best answers were "The Beatles meet Rush", "Dave Matthews meets Pink Floyd" and "Peter Gabriel with an acoustic guitar". It's nice to know Here is in respected company.

Patrick Canavan is the front man, a Toronto based musician that has written the score for over 30 productions including multi media installations, national commercial campaigns and three movies including the award winning and internationally distributed film "Amplifier". Pat collaborates largely with Bill Scholte the band's bassist and brother of Gemini award winning actor Tom Scholte. Dave Skrabec is the band's lead guitar player and owner of Ground Zero, the multi-media company that brings in all the gear necessary to create the music and video footage. Chris Craig, has been playing drums since he could walk. He's played with several bands ranging from hard rock to blues over the past 15 + years playing and recording in Greater Toronto Area. If asked what's in Chris's CD player, you might be surprised finding artists ranging from Stevie Ray Vaughn, Van Halen to Tony Bennett.. Chris is the newest member of the group.

These seasoned professionals are about to release their New 13 song CD "HERE". They are also in pre-production for two music videos "Brand New Morning" and "I See" and the website www.HEREtheBand.com will be launched on April 30.
